

William Peet
Chief Executive
ONTRACK

William Peet has worked in the rail industry for a number of years, starting his career at NZ Rail Ltd, which then became Tranz Rail after Toll NZ purchased NZ Rail from the Crown in 1993. William was contracted to the New Zealand Railways Corporation to assist in the transition from Toll when the Government purchase the rail infrastructure in 2004. He took up the Chief Operating Officer's position in ONTRACK in October 2004 and is now Chief Executive (appointed October 2007).

He has overseen the rehabilitation work carried out on the rail network since 2004 and been responsible for the major projects now in progress including the upgrade and electrification of the Auckland Metropolitan Network and the planning of similar work in Wellington. William is a Chartered Professional Engineer.
