Partner
Clayton Utz

Doug Jones is an international infrastructure lawyer, and a Sydney-based partner in the Australian law firm of Clayton Utz, where he heads the Major Projects Group.

Doug has advised on project structuring and financing, contract drafting and advice during project implementation and dispute resolution since his first admission to practice in 1972. Doug has advised clients on projects throughout Australia and in many overseas jurisdictions

Doug is well versed in PPP and PFI project delivery in Australasia and elsewhere. He has acted for Governments and the private sector in a range of such projects and in doing so devised innovative ways of successfully bidding for and closing such deals. Doug's experience includes major infrastructure matters relating to Department of Defence facilities and equipment acquisitions, airports, ports, roads, and rail projects, acting for owners (both government and private sector), financiers, contractors, consultants and subcontractors. His recent projects have included the Taiwan High-speed Rail PPP (US$16 billion), three NSW Toll Road PPPs of a total value in excess of A$5 billion, the Sydney Rollingstock PPP, the North South Bypass Tunnel, and Airport Link PPP Toll Roads in Brisbane.

In 1999, Doug was made a Member of the Order of Australia for services to Construction Law and Dispute Resolution, recognising thirty years contribution in those areas.

Amongst positions held Doug is Co-Chair of the International Projects Committee of the IBA, President of the Australian Centre for International Commercial Arbitration, and Chair of the Board of Trustees of the CIArb.
